Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 1, line 4, "the two straps" does not have antecedent basis within the claim.

To what does "the two straps" refer?

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1, 2, and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Bloom. Bloom discloses, Fig. 6, a mat 10 comprising an elongated surface area, a plurality of elongated straps 50 with one end of each strap having an end tab, (portion of strap attached to the mat), and a fastener, (hook/loop fastener), adjacent to the end tab, the other end of each strap having a fastener, (hook/loop fastener), attached thereto, and a carry strap 62, 64 attached to the end of the mat between the straps. An attachment strip 20 is fixedly attached to one edge of the yoga mat and extending the entire length of the mat with the end tab of each strap and the ends of the carry strap affixed between the mat edge and the attachment strip. The carry strap 62,64 is adjustable as by tying in a shorter length, for example.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bloom in view of either Conners or Peters.

Conners teaches forming a mat or towel of an absorbent fabric while Peters teaches forming a mat of a rubber or rubber-like material. To have formed the Bloom mat of either an absorbent fabric or a rubber or rubber-like material, thus providing either a comforting absorbent mat or a cushioning mat, would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made as taught by either of Conners and Peters.

Claims 7 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bloom in view of Palacio.

Art Unit: 3673

Palacio discloses a generally rectangular mat having enclosure pads around the perimeter. To have formed the Bloom mat assembly as a generally rectangular mat having the enclosure wall around the perimeter, thus providing a mat of varying form conforming to a customary bed, would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made as taught by Palacio.

Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bloom in view of Palacio as applied to claims 7 and 11 above, and further in view of either Conners or Peters.

Conners teaches forming a mat or towel of an absorbent fabric while Peters teaches forming a mat of a rubber or rubber-like material. To have formed the modified Bloom mat of either an absorbent fabric or a rubber or rubber-like material, thus providing either a comforting absorbent mat or a cushioning mat, would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made as taught by either of Conners and Peters.

Claims 4, 5, 9, and 10 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-11 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
